

TRAINING: IMPLEMENTATION TRAINING

Implementation Training

December 14-15, 2010

PPP Implementation Training helps schools build a successful alliance with parents and community members to increase student success. This two-day training for a school team begins by covering Foundations and Vision. Other major topics include: Family Involvement and School Climate, Planning and Implementing, Creating a Family Resource Center, and Marketing and Evaluation. Participants will receive the PPP Facilitator's Guide: Putting It All Together. Each team may receive four notebooks with workshop and supporting materials for a variety of topics with copy ready handouts. The four PPP Notebooks are Family Systems, Lifespan Development, Wellness, and Home-School Relationships.

Join a growing number of schools who are participating in the Practical Parenting Partnerships (PPP) program. Take advantage of this golden opportunity to build stronger ties between home, school and community.

To be a certified PPP school a team from the school (at least one administrator and one parent educator/facilitator) must attend a two-day training session. Certified schools receive a banner to display in their school and the electronic personalized certified school logo for letterhead and more.

Schools which do not wish to hold the certified school designation are not required to have an administrator participate, but a team of two people is always encouraged.

Cost:	$400 with resource notebooks
	$200 with training notebook only

Schools which have the notebooks, but need to train staff may attend at the $200 rate.
